

Uh-Oh... That job posting you've been waiting to hear back on? The one that asked you to pay a 50$ application fee? It's fake. And they're keeping your money. And maybe your credit card information. As you begin to enter the job market, a skill you'll need to develop is how to sort out real job postings from fake ones. They won't just waste your time, they might even take your money or information!

What you can do about it:

You're not alone in this fight against scams! You have a very powerful tool at your disposal: your laptop! Your laptop will be able to identify trends in fake job postings you may not pick up. All you need is some training and testing data to get you started. Once you have that, you'll be able to use a number of different ML techniques to help you in the job search!
